

Chapters 11, 12, & 13 – Group Discussion / Application Activity

Group 1:

You are a group of high school teachers and counselors developing a new counseling curriculum designed to assist adolescents in making a healthier transition to adult decision-making with a focus on higher education, career aspirations, and romantic relationships.

- What can you expect from the teens in interacting with them?
- What will be key aspects of your new curriculum, citing relevant developmental theories as rationale?
- How will your curriculum address issues of diversity, including gender differences?

Group 2:

You are a group of high school teachers and counselors in a large urban, lower SES high school which is plagued by considerable student behavior problems and Code of Conduct violations. Your group is given the responsibility of developing a new counseling curriculum designed to improve adolescent behavioral choices and moral character.

- What can you expect from the teens in interacting with them?
- What will be key aspects of your new curriculum, citing relevant developmental theories as rationale?
- How will your curriculum address issues of diversity, including gender differences?